Varieties are described below.

Oroblanco Grapefruit is a sweet white grapefruit. It is incredibly fragrant and is sweet versus bitter.

The Meyer Lemon is less tart than an ordinary store lemon and slightly larger. It can be used like an ordinary lemon for lemonade or for a lemon pie. Improved Meyer Lemon not only produce thin skinned, juicy and sweeter lemons but also make an attractive landscape tree.

Valencia Oranges bring benefits of vitamin C with their high juice content, thin skin and few seeds. Its blooms are very fragrant!

Sweet Georgia Kisses are the Georgia version of the Seedless Kishu Mandarin. It is one of the most delicious of all the mandarins. The fruit is smaller than a golf ball but super easy to peel, tender and juicy on the tongue, and fragrant and sweet to the nose.

Key Limes are great for so many things – they are great for digestion, healthy skin, and heart health. They can be used for cooking, cleaning, and garnishing.

The Satsuma is a juicy mandarin that bursts with a rich, mouthwatering sweet taste. It is a zipper peel, meaning the peeling just zips right off.

Sweet kumquats are fun to eat around Thanksgiving and Christmas. You eat the whole thing, rind, seeds and all - in one or two bites. The rind has an extraordinary spicy/sweet taste that is almost addictive once you bite into it. They are very cold hardy yet can handle fry-pan hot summers.
